ADDITIONAL CITY NEWS.

second Day of the Fall Meeting --- Fine Sport and a Good Crowd---Unfinished

Second Day of the Fall Meeting.—Fine Sport and a Good Crowd.—Unfinished Races.

There was an attendance of not less than 1,500 people at the races yesterday. The day was cool and cloudy and the track several seconds faster than on Tuesday. The events of the day were a pacing race and a trot for horses in the 2:18 class, neither of which were finished. The contests were close and exceedingly desporate, The pacing race was called first and the starters were Sleepy George, Rowdy Boy, Bay Sallie, Lucy, Sweetzer and Sucker State. Sweetzer was favorite in the pools, but Sleepy George took the first heat with the greatest of case in 2:30. This did not change the pool selling, Sweetzer still going even against the field. The horses corred nine times before they got off in the next heat. Bay Sallie took the lead from the start, and kept it to the wire, though at times hard pressed by Rowdy Boy, who came, in second, Sleepy George third. In the third heat Sleepy George and Sallie went to the front, and paced energetically all the way around for first place, the first named having the advantage until the head of the homestretch, when the mare lapped and passed the horse. Under the impression that the heat was won, sallie's driver slacked up a trife just within the wire, and George made a mighty lange, thrusting out an india-rubber neck until it looked to be three yards long, and poking his nose up even with Sallie's, making a dead heat. In the fourth heat, Sweetzer, who had been a slow sixth until this time, and came limping in with a bleeding foot the third heat, made a break from the start for the pole, took it, and showed the others a clean pair of heels home, winning by a half dozen lengths, Lucy second and Rowdy Boy third. The next heat Sweetzer again went to the front, and maintained his position for the first quarter. Then Bay Sallie lapped bim, and at the half mile pole was in the lead. Here Sweetzer was observed to falter, then a few rods further on to stageer, roll blindly along, plunge forward and fall into the

THE CONCLUDING HEATS TO-DAY. The races left unfinished yesterday were taken up at noon to-day and finished, as follows:

Sixth heat-Lucy first, Bay Sallie second. Time, Sixth heat—Lucy first, Bay Sallie second. Time, 2:2134.

This gives the race to Lucy, she having won one heat yesterday.

Sixth heat—Badger Girl first, Cozette second, Deception third. Time, 2:32.

Seventh heat—Deception first, Cozette second, Adelaide third. Time, 2:31%.

Eighth heat—Deception first, Cozette 2d, Badger 3d. Time—2:29. 2d. Time—2:29.

Ninth heat—Deception first, Badger second.
Time 2:31. Deception wins the race.

[Special to the Chicago Times.]

HARRISBURG, PA., October 23.-Ex-Senator Simon Cameron has received no notification of his appointment to the English mission, of his appointment to the English mission, and apparently does not expect such distinguished honors from President Hayes, whose southern and civil policy the veteran politician has repeatedly criticised with severity. Only last week at a public meeting in this city he intimated that the president had been faithless to the party to which he owed his position. Even should meeting in this city he intimated that the president had been faithless to the party to which he owed his position. Even should the mission be tendered to Mr. Cameron it is doubtful if he would take it, as he has frequently of late remarked to his friends that when he resigned his senatorship in favor of his son Don he retired from public life forever. In view of the distinguished official positions he had filled, and his extreme age, he had no further political aspirations. The ex-senator is now nearly eighty years of age, and during the past year has made long strides during the past year has made long strides down the hill of time. He has almost en-tirely forsaken politics, and has shown no interest in the present state campaign, an unusual circumstance, as he has heretofore been one of the most activo and effective workers in the republican cause.

A Panic in the Park Theater, New York.

New York, October 25.—A panic was occasioned in the Park theater last night during the performance of "The Crushed Tragedian." The last act was being played, and the scene was that which represents a drawing room in the prompter's new house. In the center of the flat was a mass of gause, behind which was placed a gas jet in the way to give the effect of a mirror. A slight gust of wind threw seme of the light drapery back into the flame of the gas jet, and it immediately took fire.

A cry of alarm was uttered by some one, and the people arose from their seats, many making a hasty exit to the street. In the confusion several ladies fainted. The panic

THE DAILY NEWS.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1877.

THE senate was in attendance on the Baltimore races yesterday.

GEORGE Fox, the "Humpty Dumpty" of many generations of little folks, is dead. "Where be your gibes now? your gambols? your songs? your flashes of merriment?"

THE czar of Russia still publicly adheres to the fiction of "the improvement of the condition of the christians in the provinces," and announces this as a reason for the continuance of the war.

THE English mission seems to be an Avernus. There is a facilis descensus about it which is bad for the country. First we had Schenck, then we got down to Pierrepont, and now Simon Cameron is threatened as a lower depth.

THE promise made by editor Fulton, of the Baltimore American, that a reform candidate for mayor should be elected if the collector of the custom house was put out, was not redeemed. This is another instance of the inevitable failure of the doctrine of doing evil that good may

An immense public meeting in Philadelphia was addressed by the Rev. John Hall of New York and other prominent preachers on "the prevailing desecration of the Sabbath." The permanent exposition was attacked full in the face for its open doors on Sunday. The law of 1794 providing penalties for Sabbath desecration was cited as being still in force, and a committee was appointed to consider what action should be taken.

An announcement from the Woodruff scientific expedition explains the postponement of that enterprise. It was found that extensive alterations would have to be made in the vessel selected, which would consume a great deal of time and then would not make the vessel all that was desired. A contract has been made with John Roach, the iron shipbuilder, to build a vessel for the purpose, and this is to be finished by the 15th of May. The route of the expedition has been changed so that it will first go to Europe, taking in the Paris exposition, and then proceed east. The expedition promised to be a success, two hundred and sixty persons having agreed to go, and there was a great deal of interest taken in it in many parts of the country. If this interest can be maintained, the delay will be advantageous in all respects.

SHORTLY after the July riots a workingmen's party was organized in Baltimore on an anowedly communistic platform, and a candidate for mayor was nominated. There were two others in the field George P. Kane, ex-marshal, who gained considerable notoriety at the outbreak of the rebellion, as a democratic candidate, and H. M. Warfield who was elected two years ago as a reformer but who was cheated out of the office, as a candidate upon the same platform. The workingmen's party developed a good deal of strength, the head of the ticket, Mr. Thompson, strenuously denying any belief in communism and virtually throwing the platform overboard. He was supported by a good many republicans who two years ago supported Warfield, and the latter was given the cold shoulder, in the hope that an alliance with the workingmen would beat Kane. The latter was elected yesterday by a majority of 15,000. Doubtless there was a good deal of cheating done, as the ring party in, Baltimore did not intend to lose its grip under any circumstances, but the majority is so large as to leave no doubt that Mr. Kane was fairly elected. There has been a good deal of corresption in Baltimore first and last, as democrats admit, but Kane's election is expected to make a change. He is a man of decided character, and much improvement is anticipated under his administration. The power of the mayor in Baltimore is very great. He is the head of the city government in reality as well as in name, and we do not know of a city in the country where greater responsibility attaches to the office.

To SPEAK of Mr. Evarts as a man not sufficiently practical, as the Journal does, referring to the tender of the English mission to Pennsylvania, is to argue one's self unpractical. About the most practical man in modern society is a lawyer well read and practiced, and Mr. Evarts is a lawyer of lawyers, noted on both sides of the sea for the length of his sentences and the hardness of his head. Nor do we see that it was "eminently proper for the president to consider locality as one of the elements of choice in the selection of a minister, just as he did in the choice of an associate justice of the supreme court," as the Journal also declares, and for the very reason declared in the declaration. An associate justice is called upon to administer in circuits which include different parts the country, and a man who is the people included in a circuit, of the acquainted with local laws, customs, and temperament, versed in the peculiarities of practice which may prevail in the region, and familiar with the complexion of cases arising therein, is better fitted to preside in that district than one whose life and habits have been formed in another latitude, and to that extent there is a fitness in consulting locality in the appointment of a justice. But it is absurd to assume that a representative of this government to another nation is more or less qualified for the place on account of the locality from which he comes. The best man for the place is the one who should be sent to St. James or any other court, whether he comes from Maine or Texas, The "locality" element, in such selections, is an outgrowth of the old states-rights, slavery and anti-slavery jealousies, and in this year of grace, 1877, is as absurd as it is obsolete. But The News holds all the same that Simon Cameron is eminently unfit to represent the American people in any place, and not on account of locality, but especially because he is a representative of the corruption of Grantism, and generally because he has not sufficient of those qualities possessed by "them dam literary fellers."

The Reason of It.

Mr. W. B. Vickers, formerly editor of the Mirror of this city, and now a Denver editor and a good one, says in a letter published in The News yesterday of the defeat of woman suffrage in Colorado: "Among the several causes assigned for our defeat, the most prominent is the fact that so few women were really interested in favor of their own enfranchisement." That is the difficulty everywhere. If a majority of the wives, daughters, sisters and mothers of male voters really wanted the privilege of the ballot box they could have it as certainly as they could make their wishes understood. There has never been a time since the "reform" or "movement" or "humbug" or what not of "woman suffrage" was first proposed, that men would have made a party, or even a point, of antagonism to it, if they could have felt assured that the better element of their households would feel wronged without it. Just fancy the state of a family in which a mother and grown sisters, with possibly an aunt and an occasional grandmother or mother-inlaw, should really and not capriciously want to vote, and the father, a grown son or two and a loosely attached uncle or two should seriously resist. Sore eyes in a swarm of gnats "would be weakness" as Mrs. Gamp says, to express the discomfort of that house. Extend the contention, the alienation-not the mere petulance that retaliates a disappointed dress or a forgotten concert with neglected buttons or dilapidated socks, but the sense of real grievance, of injustice enforced by master against affection-divide every household upon the line of sex, and the community wouldbe as much worse than Babel as Babel was worse than a Quaker meeting. In a week there wouldn't be a man whose home was home and not a proprietory eating house, who would not say to his wife, his mother, his daughters, "vote, for peace's sake vote; vote early, often, on all sides, everywhere, but let me have one place where I'll see nobody to wrangle with and nothing to put hot ashes from my own hearth on fresh scratches I get outside." Wo men, at least women happily set in their own homes, care about as little for political contentions as lotos eaters for a prize fight. We don't doubt that the polls would be purer for the presence of estimable women, and as the result would be about the same—the process only multiplying both members of the equation by two, leaving the relative proportion unchanged—the concession might be an advantage. In the main, women know that the ballot would have little service or interest for them-value would be excep-tional-and therefore they care little about it. Whenever they really care, and show it, they'll get it, as they usually get pretty much everything they really w

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM. he History of the President's Order to Office Holders.

[Washington Special to the Chicago Times.]
At the outset of the administration—the question of eliminating from politics the corrupt influence of federal officials was corrupt influence of federal officials was often considered. It was found upon examination that in nearly all great cities of the country the rings of federal office holders had so managed political matters that it was practically impossible for any body outside of the rings to obtain any nomination to office, and this influence had become so great that it was deemed advisable on the part of the president to see what he could do to reach it. It was first considered in the cabinet and afterwards discussed by the president with his most intimate friends. What he desired most to break up was the influence of pol-ticians in the make up of conventions. It was thought best at first to direct an order to be issued by the heads of the various departments to their subordinates saving that they were directed by order of the president to abstain from acting in political conventions or in unduly effecting the nomination of men for office. One of the most favorably considered of the schemes was the proposition of writing a letter to some well-known official who had been actually engaged in politics, and to state to him that it was the president's desire that he should not continue to exercise the duties of his office under the government, and at the same time fill a political office. It was thought best to address this to some person who was on intimate terms with the presi-dent so that he would not take it unkindly and then to have the correspondence published with a view of indirectly influence ing federal officials throughout the country, but this proposition did not please the president for it seemed to him that it expresident for it seemed to him that it ex-hibited a timidity and that it would not in reality have the effect that he desired to accomplish. It was finally resolved to put the matter in the shape of an executive order, making it peremptory and binding upon every offi-cial under the government. This was cial under the government. This was George W. Curtis and others of his class, who visited the White house at this time thought that this was the wisest course to be adopted. Every possible argument against the issuing of such an order was duly considered and every effect that has since come as the result of this order was at that time considered. It was argued even then that such an order carried out would have a tendency to disorganize the party, to do away with its local management, and to strand the so-called republican party upon the shoals of defeat.

Mr. Curtis and his friends urged upon the president, however, that even if the defeat and the total wreck of the so-called republican party were accomplished by the carrying out of such an order, there was still rea-son for its being issued; that if the republican party depended only for its life on rings, it was time that the matter should be submitted to the people whether the party was not regarded as less important than the issues that the president desired to make in promulgating this order. He believed, as his friends believe, that if the party should be disorganized and demoralized by the absence of its usual local managers, the first defeat that came would be of a temporary character, and that there were enough good men in the country who would rally to this work, if need be, and perform it more earnestly and successfully han have the office-holders in their bes days. This is regarded as the question still to be solved, and the president declares in his most decided manner, that not a in his most decided manner, that not a single iota of the order has been changed, and that the order will stand so long as his administration. Immediately after fssuing the order there were great numbers of letters poured in upon the White house asking for information as to the proper construction of the order. In all nstances replies were sent stating that the president did not intend in any way to dictate to any official what he should do during the canvass; that the order was solely directed toward the manipulation of canvassers, and that during a political campaign every federal official could use his own judgment and act any local part he should desire to take in the canvass. was the original construction of the order, and that there has been no change in the mind of the president upon the subject. It is also denied authoritatively that the removal of the consul who took part in the canvass in Ohio, was, as has been alleged, for this reason. The consul was removed for cause known best to the state department, and the president had nothing to do with it. He has made no removals of federal officials for making speeches in the campaign, and does not so intend.

A discussion in the convention of librarians at London brought out some curious facts concerning the British museum. Sev-eral speakers advocated the compiling of a complete catalogue of the books in the museum, which, it is estimated, would cost not less than $1,500,000. It would have to contain 3,000,000 titles. A quarter of a century would be taken up in the printing of the catalogue, and by that time there would he an accumulation of 300;-000 to 400,000 new titles. THE GREAT RACE.

Lorillard's Tom Ochiltree, carrying 114 pounds, and P. Lorillard's Parole, crrrying 105 pounds were the starters. In the pools, Tenbroeck was the favorite at large odds, selling against the field at nearly two to one. He sold for $1,200, while Tom Ochiltree brought $400 and Parole $335. The wildest excitement prevailed about the pool stands and on the grand stand. The horses started well with Ten Broeck in front, Ochstands and on the grand stand. The horses started well with Ten Broeck in front,Och-iltree second, Parole third. On the upper turn Tenbroeck opened two lengths ahead of Tom, and Parole was two lengths ahead of Tom, and raroic was two lengus behind, and at the end of the quarter, while Tenbroeck held his advantage Pa-role fell back two lengths. The first half mile was run without change and when the two horses passed the stand the most intense excitement prevailed. Around the lower turn Ochiltree recovered one length, and at the quarter-pole was only one length behind Tenbroeck, with Parole three lengths behind. On the back stretch Ochiltree gained another half-length, and Parole ran easily at his distance, only two lengths in the rear, and at the half-mile Ochiltree was only a half length behind Tenbroeck, while Parole had gained one length. On the upper turn Ochiltree pushed forward and showed a head in front, increasing his advantage to nead in front, increasing his advantage to a half length at the three-quarter pole. Down the home stretch he increased the advantage to two lengths, with Parole three lengths behind Tenbroeck. In that order they passed the stand, but on the lower turn Tenbroeck gained the length had turn Tenbroeck gained the length he had lost, as did also Parole. At the quarter Tenbroeck and Ochiltree ran head and head, and on the back stretch Tenbroeck showed a head in front. He increased his advantage at the half-mile pole, and went into the upper turn one length ahead of Ochiltree, who led Parole over a length. At the three-quarter pole Parole made a dash and ran up even with Ochiltree. Down the home stretch the running was fine, Parele went gallantly to the front and finished two length shead of Ten-broeck, who beat Tom Ochiltree four lengths. Time, 4:374.

After the race Parole was received with cheers, and the people gathered around him. As soon as his jockey was weighed the crowd raised him on their shoulders and carried him about the track with cheer upon cheer.

The Ordinance Report.

General Benet, the chief of ordnance calls attention in his report to what he deems the unprotected state of the public property at the national armories and arsenals, there being only twenty men to pro-tect the Pittsburg arsenal in the midst of the recent mobs. He estimates the value the recent mobs. He estimates the value of the public establishments and stores at $60,000,000, and thinks an addition of 1,000 enlisted men to the ordnance corps a prudent step. There are now in store only 8,562 rifles and 5,983 carbines, and General Benet recommends the manufacture of 50,000 during the next fiscal year, and of a similar rate of production till million guns be in store. The estimate for 50,000 guns is $900,000. raise the appropriation for arming and equipping the militia from $200,000 to $1,-000,000, the 'former sum being sufficient for the arming of only 8,000 men. One of General Benet's most pressing and proper recommendations probably is for the increase of the supply of metallic ammunition, which has been hitherto only been ten rounds per man per month, or 3,000,000 cartridges annuallp. This meager allowance gave point to the aphorism of the plains that the In-dian was a better marksman than the soldier, because he was more generous of ammunition than the United States government. Gen. Benet has been compelled to double the allowance, and has now only 6,000,000 cartridges in store. He asks for $95,000 for the armament of fortifications and the insertion of wrought-iron rifle tubes into smooth bore cannon, by which they can be made to pierce anything less than 8-inch iron plate at 1,000 yards. He recommends also the manufacture of Gatlatter, and asks for $100,000 for the tablishment of experimental powder-mills The expenditure by the bureau of ord-nance in 1876-7 was $1,735,000.

A large number of prominent gentlemen of this city, of both parties, have requested that Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees deliver his lecture on Jefferson here at an early day. The distinguished gentleman has accepted the invitation, and names Thursday. November 8th, as the time when it will be convenient to comply with the request.

George B. Yandes yesterday received a telegram from Virginia City, Montana, announcing the death of Daniel Yandes, jr. Mr. Yandes had been there for more than two years past engaged in mining. His death comes unexpectedly to friends and relatives in this city. He was the nephew of Daniel Yandes, sr., and leaves a wife and two children.

Appearance of the Country.

Appearance of the Country.

The recent frosts, supplementing the work of the rainy weather, have largely stripped the trees of their gaudy fall plumage, but some of the tougher ones hold out and show some green patches where they have had water handy. The grass is remarkably green and fresh for nearly the first of November. Even among the rag weeds and iron weeds of the bottoms it glistens as brightly as May, and the green gleams and streaks through the openings in the rusty weeds look like emeralds shining through the holes and rips of a snuff-colored old coat. Where scarlet and yellow leaves are scattered aver this verdure the contrasts of the vivid colors are striking.

Two tracks are down on each side of the stock yards, but these are to be doubled, the inner one being for the discharge and reception of stock on the cars, and three outer ones mainly for the storage of ears during the time of waiting shipments. These will be connected by a double track around the south end, but as there will be little use for it except as storage room and freight yard convenience, it will be completed when it is needed. Next to the inside track on both sides, and the whole length of the double range of stables, is to be a platform ten feet wide and of the exact hight of a car floor, to which the ground will be leveled. It will be supported by red codar nests like double range of stables, is to be a platform ten feet wide and of the exact hight of a car floor, to which the ground will be leveled. It will be supported by red cedar posts like all the work, even to the exterior fences and the subdivision posts of the stables, and heavy oak plank. All the hard-service lumber of the entire yard inside and outside, is oak. No fragile pine or fast rotting poplar anywhere where there is strain or exposure. These pens and platforms will be finished this week, or come within a very little of it.

The water troughs are made of two-inch oak, three feet wide at the top, nearly two at the bottom, about twelve feet long, and twenty inches deep. They are covered by inclined lids, which completely exclude all dust and detrimental stuff of any sort. They are placed at the ends of the division fences, so that the stock in the pens on each side can use the same trough. The feeding troughs are smaller, and extend along both sides of each pen, which as heretoiore published are 45 feet wide by 91 long. The racks are made of slats of oak an inch thick and 2 or 2½ inches wide and are set between the pens on that wide, and are set between the pens so that one filling serves both sides. The hog pens are a third or fourth the size of the cattle pens, the two western stables being conse-crated to those tenements of the Gadarene devils, and are capable of holding about 15,000 of them. They have a first class scale in the westernmost stable, as the cattle have in the easternmost.

A fence of cedar and oak surrounds the A fence of cedar and oak surrounds the entire yard, or will very soon, as the posts are being set as fast as hands can do it, and a division fence separates the stables from the Exchange building. The street from the Belt, beside the railway into the yard on the west, which is 60 feet wide, is getting its covering of gravel. A corresponding street on the east side will make a way out of the yard for carriages and stock. The latter will run between the engine house and the pump yard for carriages and stock. The latter will run between the engine house and the pump house at the northeast corner of the yard. These buildings are complete, and the only work behind that is indispensable to the com-mencement of business is the completion of the stone foundations and massive frames of the water tanks. These are covered by as many workmen as can find room to work. The central portion of the main exchange build-ing is unroofed. The rears and the wings of the fronts are under cover, the former of the fronts are under cover, the former having been slated and a course of inside finishing completed for a week or two. The connections of the Belt with other roads are all done, except the Vincennes, which can be finished in a day; the stone work of the upper bridge is ready for the superstructure; the big fill across the Cottrell bottom done, and the roadbed pushing on from the Bloomington ing to the Lafayette road at North In apolis. A rumor is current on the Belt that the Bee line will begin its transfer by the new road next Monday. By that time, or within a very little of it, all the operations of the many-named "Union railroad transfer and stock yard company" will begin. The

Compound Comminuted Ethical Frac-ture.

At the recent meeting of the Marion county medical society Drs. Bullard, Bider, Wright, Comingor and Harvey, in voluminous writings, charged Drs. R. N. Todd, I. C. Walker and Joseph Eastman with a violation of section first, article first, second division of the code of ethics of the American medical society and of the Marion county organization, in that they visited the city hosmedical society and of the Marion county or-ganization, in that they visited the city hos-pital on or about the 10th, 13th, 17th and 20th of October, 1877, and then and there did examine and prescribe for certain pa-tients while Drs. Boyd, Runnels and Compton irregular (that is homosopathic) physicians were officially recognized as mem-bers of the hospital staff, and that the offend-ers by such visits detracted from the honor and dignity of the medical profession. The whole matter, insignificant to any other than a medical mind, grows out of the rivalry bea medical mind, grows out of the tween the two colleges, and was referred by the society to the judiciary committee.

To the Editor of The Indianapolis News:

What right had the state house commissioners to award the contract for the removal of the old state building to J. Martin, when he was not a bidder at the time of receiving bids, on the 28th of August, 1877? I, D. G. do not return, until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy and trusted specifie for the Fever and Ague of the West and the Chills and Fever of the South.

AYER'S AGUE CURE eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease, so that no Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed, where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from miasmic poison, it removes the cause of them, and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure, but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaris, it will expels the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and temporary residents in Feyer and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The general debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to malaria and miasma, has no speedier

Kelly, the proprietor of the Everett hast night of cancer of the stomach. Walter J. Garvey, of the St. Louis union ticket office, is in the city visiting old friends and ac-

The 9:30 train on the Vincennes road came it with eight coaches crowded with passengers bound for the races.

County treasurer Hanway is not particularly impressed with the eagerness of the American citizen to pay taxes. W. R. Hogshire's horse and carriage were stolen from in front of the residence of Canada Holmes where the family were visiting yesterday.

Recent repairs on Washington street east of Delaware, will go for naught as the new gas company is tearing that highway up to lay down mains. A Catholic gentleman of this city, who has speculated largely in grain and real estate, has had his life insured for $5,000 to be expended in masses for any

W. H. Carpenter, a well known telegraph opera-tor of this city, was married last night to Mis Kate W. Cushman, daughter of the auditor of Vermillion county.

A Liberty, Kentucky, youth who sprained his ankle last winter kicking the bounding football, has arrived at the surgical institute to have his leg amputated.

The insane hospital management has refused to receive Mrs. Lizzie Watson, on account of her horribly diseased condition and she was to-day sent to the city hospital.

Samuel Anderson and John Allen, saloon kee er, No. 275 West Washington street, were fined seach in the city court to-day for selling liquiditions.

Deputy prosecutor Lamb attended the races yes-terday, and to-day he proposed to bet on his judg-ment when a difference of opinion arose between himself and the opposing counsel in the city court. A party of young folks from the First Baptist church gave an oyster supper last evening at the residence of Mr. Furguson, six miles east of the city, and all had a delightful time.

The filing of petitions in bankruptcy this morning by Andrew J. Glover, Emsly Sink and Keller Thompson, wealthy farmers of Gosport, provokes the inquiry, "Is all Gosport going into the hopper?"

The Harriet Perry case is still dragging along in room No. 2, superior court. The plaintiff has suc-ceded in establishing, a pretty bad reputation for herself, and her attorneys regard this as one step

There is war among the South Illinois street bus-iness men on account of the sign nuisance. Several reformers propose to make a clean sweep and have the neglected ordinance regulating the matter strictly inforced.

Commissioners are now condemning property for the Belt road between the I., B. & W. and Lafayette railroads. They find a wave of increasing values rising before them, the financial waters growing deeper as they advance.

Mr. Moynahan, of Detroit, the owner of Edinburgh, one of the contesting horses at the Park races, was robbed of a valuable diamond breastpin at the Occidental hotel night before last, and four dozen detectives are on the trail of the thiei.

The wedding of Dr. E. F. Hodges, of Boston, to Miss Laura, daughter of Mr. S. A. Fletcher, Jr., was appointed to take place at 4 o'clock at the residence of the parents of the bride. The newly married couple will go east soon after the performance of the ceremony.

The grand lodge independent sons of honor met at 9 o'clock this morning in their hall. The day has been taken up with secret business of the order. The committee on nominations will report tomorrow, at which time the officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

An old gentlemen, an early riser, went to visit his pastor this morning on church matters to find him in bed at nine o'clock. The old gentleman was indignant and spoke his mind, saying that no man who would he abed till that time could do the Lord a full day's work.

Charles Boyer, arrested in Terre Haute last week by detective Page on a charge of railway ticket thievery, was released by the mayor this morning. It is alleged that the crime was committed so long ago that the witnesses can not give an accurate his-tory of the circumstances.

Louisa E. Deck to-day instituted suit to obtain a divorce from Henry C. Deck. alleging various wicked violations of the marriage vow as a cause for the proceedings. To forestall cards from numerous innocent Deck's, The News will state that the defendant is a printer, and was turnkey at the central station under democratic misrule.

United States Marshal Spooner to-day received a document from Washington, D. C., which proved to be a pardon for John H. Cook, now serving a penitentiary sentence of one year for robbing the mails on the Vincennes road. His term would be out November 1, but the pardon relieves him of the payment of the fine, which was added to the imprisonment.

The authorities are keeping preternaturally quiet about a shooting affray between the police and a party of medical students who were transporting a dead body through the city at a late hour last night and consequently nothing can be learned about it beyond the bare fact that the row occurred near the corner of Mississippi and Michigan streets, and about was hurt.

Mrs. Barmeier, Miss Marcia Willard, Messrs. R. J. T. White and S. L. Morrison have gone to Rockville to take part in the musical contest to be held there this and to-morrow evening. One of the prizes is $60 for the best quartett singing six selections. There are also prizes of $10 each for the best so-pranno and tenor solos, and Mrs. Barmeier and Mr. White will endeavor to win them.

Officers Tim Splann and M. L. Murphy arrested Henry Strachelholz this morning, who is charged with the theft of 1,000 cigars from the Mozart hall saloon last Monday night. Nine boxes of cigars, which had been disposed of at two or three eating houses opposite the union depot on Louisiana street, were recovered. Mr. Strachelholz is said to be a great traveler, and has a record in St. Louis and other cities, and other cities,

Austin Woddell, erstwhile colored porter at Fletcher & Shiarpe's bank, was given two years in the penitentiary to-day, on a piea of guilty to the grand larceny indictment based on the theft of Messrs. Fletcher's and Compton's diamonds. Mr. Neeld, of Ferguson & Co., came into court and begged off John Morley, indicted for stealing hams from Ferguson's pork house. Morley was released on parcole.

A Journal reporter who deals with statistics quite recklessly, makes the assertion that there has not been a death at the institution for the deaf and dumb since its organization. As this occurred in 1844 the students would appear to be miraculously proceived. There has not however bean a death for the past three years. The statement that Mr. James S. Brown was the first superintendent is also incorrect, Mr. W. W. Willard being the first to hold that position.

The Last Charlie Ross Canard.

The Last Charlie Ross Canard.

It devolves upon The News to puncture the last Charlie Ross sensation, published in the Cincinnatic Commercial in the form of a special from Richmond, Ind., and reproduced in this paper yeaterday. The story is that the stolen boy had been found in the possession of Mr. Moffitt, a wealthy farmer living in Wayne county, and a mice little romance was builded upon the circumstance. Now the real facts are these: This child was taken into the Indianapolis orphan asylum in the spring of 1871 and was at that time nine months old. The mother was dead and the father, Brady by name, was a man of dissolute habits. The boy was adopted by Mr. Moffitt in July, 1872, and in the October following Charlie Ross was stolen. It is very evident then that the Richmond Charlie Ross was "off" in his recognition of his "brother Walter" from a photograph shown him, and that his description about the trees, the two men in a carriage, and other little incidents, might have applied to Indianapolis trees and Mr. Moffitt, if indeed the whole story is not made out of whole cloth.

Entertaining Readings.

Entertaining Readings.

Parker Pillsberry, the noted abolitionist of olden times and the noted radical religionist of to-day, is spending a few days in the city, the guest of M. H. McKay. Through the kindness of Mrs. M. W. Thompson, on North Alabama street, a select company of perhaps 25 friends have listened to Mr. Pillsberry read two lectures on the French revolution, one on Tuesday evening the other on Wednesday evening. Mrs. E. justifies the revolution and defends its leaders on high moral grounds. While not many if any of his auditors could agree with him in any of his extreme views, all folt highly entertained and instructed.

Dropped Dead.

James Crosby, residing on Greenwood street, dropped dead at 9 o'clock from an attack of apoplexy. The body was removed to Kregelo's and the coroner is holding an inquest this afternoon. The deceased was 53 years of age and leaves a family. He was a laborer.

William Guffin of Guffin's station, Rush county, came into the city this morning. He likes to see a good horse go and he came up to take in the races. While sauntering up Illinois street he was attracted by the dulcet tones of a smooth voticed auctioneer, and entered the shop to see a full 18-carat gold watch "going, going" for $12. Mr. Guffin is no spring chicken. He knows the difference between a watch and a coonskin. The full jeweled article was handed him for examination and a brace of sleek young gentlemen stood at his elbow expressing the utness anxiety to buy the watch themseves. Mr. G. turned it over and over in his hand, looking at it top and bottom, and predding in among its entrails. He then offered $1 for it, adding that it was brass. Then there was a roar. The auctioneer callled Mr. Guffin a pickpocket, and the old gentleman cracked his heels together and invited the whole shop to meet him on the sidewalk in deadly combat. He fold them who he was, and gyrating his arms if ke a Dutch wind-mill, delivered an impassioned speech to the effect that he would stay right here in the city and "bust the darned ranch."

a large crowd gathering, the auctioneers and proprietors endeavored to pacify him, but he left owing that he would come back with proper authority and give them at least $1,000 worth of trouble for slandering him; besides he had read of these establishments and they "couldn't play any gum games on him—not by a darned sight."

A B-a-a-d Cutter.

A B-a-a-d Cutter.

Mayor Caven to-dag had occasion to assess a fine against Charles Paulson for wife beating. Mr. Paulson, who is a gentle being six feet high and built for a blacksmith, has been in the habit of relieving the monotony of domestic life by choking, his wife, a frail, sickly creature, and thumping her in a way that would shame a Bashi-Bazonk. Even that manly sport grew tedious to Mr. Paulson, and a day or two ago he added variety to the marital entertainment by attempting to chop up the wife of his bosom with an H-inch butcher knife. It was for this that the mayor gave him an admonition and fined him in an amount that will restrain Mr, P.'s exuberance for some time to come.

The St. Denis hotel and Taylor's saloon is situated in the very heart of New York, at the corner of Broadway and Eleventh streets, opposite Grace church, and just above Stewart's retail pelace. It is conducted on the European plan, is first class in every respect, and the restaurant is one of the finest in the city, while the prices are considerably lower. No better hotel can be found by visitors from Indiana, and those from Indianapolis have an additional attraction in the presence of the cashier, Mr., George F. Hippard, who was long a resident of this city. The News can always be found at the St. Denis among the other connorts of this elegant and homelike hotel.
